

Bio

Lilian Namuma S. Kong'ani is a Tutorial Fellow, University of Nairobi, and a Fellow of the Mawazo Learning Exchange Programme at the Mawazo Institute. She is a Candidate, Ph.D. in Environmental Governance and Management at the University of Nairobi. She holds a Master of Science degree in Environmental Governance from the University of Nairobi, and Bachelor of Environmental Studies (Community Development) degree from Kenyatta University. Her doctoral research focuses on the, "role of mediation in resolving developmental conflicts for sustainable development in Kenya. Kong'ani has published in peer-reviewed journals and participated in several local and international conferences, including the 2019 International Student Conference on Environment and Sustainability (ISCE) at Tongji University and UN Environment, organized by UN Environment - Tongji Institute of Environment for Sustainable Development (IESD), in Shanghai, China. Kong'ani is interested and passionate about natural resource governance, climate change, community development, conflict resolution, peacebuilding, gender mainstreaming, sustainable development, research and humanitarian work. She was privileged to receive inter alia, the UoN@50 Achievers' award for her contribution towards the establishment of the Wangari Maathai Institute for Peace and Environmental Studies, and a special recognition for her exemplary service to the college. Kong'ani has previously worked as an Administrative Assistant at the Wangari Maathai Institute for Peace and Environmental Studies, where she also participated in the implementation of the Stabilizing Kenya through resolving forest related conflicts (STAKE project), Promoting the critical role of women in climate change mitigation (wPOWER) project and the Kenyan Women's Entrepreneurial Leadership Program (Launch and Grow). She also worked as an Intern at the United Nations Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR), Community Services Unit. She is a certified International Standards Organization (ISO) Auditor at the University of Nairobi, where she also serves on numerous committees. Kong'ani believes in taking up new challenges and contributing towards solutions to local and global development and environmental issues for inter and intra-generational equity.